Two more charges of murder re-main against Paul Barbata, for whom a jury decreed the death pen-alty in finding him guilty, yesterday, afternoon, of the murder of Lillie Salamoni, 18 years old.

Barbata shot and killed the girl, her father, Sam Salamoni, and her brother, Joe, 17, at their home, 2317 Cooper street, Jan. 6, after the men had ordered him to cease his attentions to Lillie. Barbata, who was married, went to the house, as he said afterward, "to wipe out the family," and might have killed also he girl's mother and sister but his pistol missed fire.

The murder cases based on the killings of the father and brother will be deferred pending the outcome of a motion for a new trial, and a probable appeal, in the first

The jury, in Judge Bader's Court, considered the evidence for three hours. When the verdict was brought in, Barbata, who had been sitting with his head in his hands, was ordered to arise. and on this point Judge Bader instructed the jury that it might find him to have been insane at the time of the crime, and to be still insane, in which case the Court would have had the duty of committing him to an institution Joseph Catanzaro, Barbata's law-

HIGHWAYS FOR HEAVY TRAFFIC.

Illinois, wrestling with its share of the nation-wide problem created on the highways by busses and trucks, recently attempted a solution by reducing the speed limit for busses to 25 miles an hour. Bus operators objected strenuously to this order, contending that such a snail-like pace would ruin their business. The motoring public also protested, for the slow driver is almost as great a menace to highway safety as the speeder. The measure was never enforced, and was later withdrawn by the Commerce Commission, which had made the regulation, with the explanation that it had been done "by mistake."

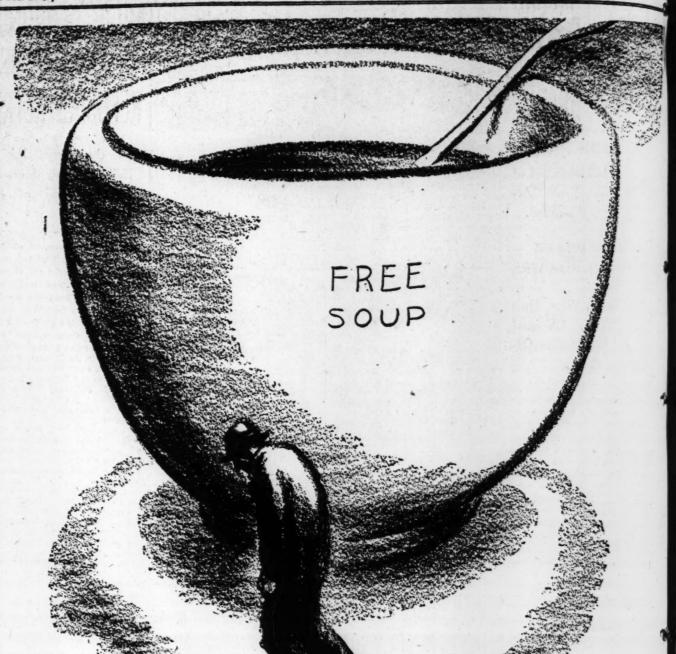

Italy offers a logical solution to this problem. A 100-mile highway, built especially for bus and truck traffic, is about to be opened between Genoa and Milan. Without intersections, with wide curves and of heavy paving, the new road will enable heavy vehicles to travel at high speeds without endangering private drivers. Suggestions for similar highways have been made in this country, but have failed. Senator Phipps of Colorado proposed in 1929 that Congress create a commission to study the practicability of a nation-wide system of express highways for heavy traffic. The Senate approved the resolu tion, but it failed in the House. A measure looking to similar highways in New York State died in the Legislature last year. As heavy motor vehicles come more widely into use perative, either on special highways or in separate lanes of the main thoroughfares. Italy's experiment is worthy of study for the light it will cast on the plan's value. Such highways will be commonplace in the future, and, even now, they are worth conat 20 cents a share and sell it at $55 a share, and sidering as part of the nation's public works program. 1? Abolishing the Smoke Evil

Elimination of city smoke, writer says, would lower death rate by one sixth, cut cleaning bills in two, give 20 to 50 per cent more sunlight, end huge property toll and waste of fuel; use of processes now available would abolish this evil; author prefers campaign of education to one of force, and praises St. Louis furnace school.

From "Stop That Smoke!" by Henry Obermeyer; Harper & Bros., Publishers.

ORE powerful than laws, bayonets or bullets in enforcing measures against smoke is the cold white light of publicity. Once we understand exactly where the smoke comes from - whose chimneys and whose boilers - the problem will have gone a long way toward solving itself.

As education and economics succeed in introducing cleaner fuels and better firing practices, the number of smoke producers will be gradually reduced to the point where the occasional offender will be conspicuous as an enemy against health, property and society. He will lose the sanction that goes with extra-legal actions performed in the Education rather than a campaign of active prosecution, is the only real hope of dealing with the smoke problem under present conditions. This must be so if only for the reason that the courts, with their calen dars already crowded to capacity, could not handle a fraction of the complaints that might be turned in by the efforts of a determined squad of smoke-abaters. There is still another reason, however—and the principal one-which is simply the fact that education and persuasion, if successful, will result in permanent improvement, whereas the success of other methods depends en tirely on eternal vigilance and legal force. The best kind of persuasion is that which appeals directly to the enlightened self-interest of the offender

Here is an unparalleled opportunity for the women to make their influence felt, politically and in other ways. Smoke means two of the principal nightmares of femining existence. Public opinion will have a powerful ally when Mrs. Homemaker "gets wise."

ucational measures looking toward smoke abatement, to be permanently effective, must start with the family unit so as to develop the new public opinion that will be necessary to cope with the smoke evil from industries and other sources. A cer tain amount of this "home work" should precede any attempt at general enfor of new or existing smoke laws.

Where the purposes of an established pro gram are generally understood, and the pub c has confidence in its leaders, the majority have been found not only willing, but eager, to do their share in a city-wide movement for abolition of smoke. This was con firmed by a report of Erle Ormsby, president of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League of St. Louis, who wrote:

"Our demonstrators have found that all but two or three families in a block will readily learn how to fire their furnaces in an efficient and smokeless manner, and they are usually delighted with the results. The ideal plan is for the Smoke Abatement League to use its educational campain and nstration methods for the 90 per cent who will co-operate, and turn over the 10 per cent who will not co-operate to the City Smoke Department, who will then talk to these people in the only language they can understand, the language of force." The St. Louis Furnace Firing School is an interesting, if exceptional, example of the right step in this direction. This school was established in 1926 through the co-operation of the coal, coke, furnace and boiler industries. It occupies a building where six warmair furnaces and three steam boilers are in operation. The different makes of furnaces and boilers on exhibit cover the most common types of heating equipment in use in St. Louis. Free instruction is given to all who are interested. The practical demonstration on a furnace or boiler in operation is given by an experienced demonstrator. At one end of the building is a lecture room, where lectures are given to special classes of janitors and any interested groups. local furnace manufacturers and distributors furnished the furnace equipment for demonstration, and their engineers assist in training the instructors. The record of attendance for some periods runs into several thousands.

The public appears now to be awake to the harmful character of smoke. But there is an apparent tendency to be well satisfied with present accomplishments, whereas noth ing short of complete elimination of the smoke evil will bring about adequate protection of property and health from this

The first great advance—the determining factor that took smoke abatement out of the hands of the luncheon-club reformer and placed it where it belongs, in care of the sanitation and combustion engineer with the realization that, in addition to the stupendous wastage of material wealth and public well-being, the producer of smoke was paying for his own negligence by inefficient utilization of fuel. If smoke elimination meant an immediate money saving to every fuel user, there would have been no smoke problem and no anti-smoke laws to enforce. The important thing is that a new conception of fuel economy has been introduced into the thinking processes of householders and factory managers. Relative costs of available types of fuel are no longer the only factors considered. People are beginning to understand that obtaining heat and putting it to useful ses are the sole objects of burning co coke, gas or oil. If fuel is allowed to burn when no heat is required, or if some of that heat is dissipated up the chimney, then the ultimate cost of the fuel, whether in tons. gallons or cubic feet, has been proportionally in excess of the price for which it was originally purchased.

When more people get to thinking along these lines, adding into their fuel costs all of the items that go into the total for heat, there will be a powerful increment of supgroups heretofore doubtful or downright antagonistic. We may even expect to find such elements paying their - good money to experts for showing them how to enjoy clean chimneys and smokeless flues.

The public pays the piper and calls the tune; but the tune has changed and is now called "Economy." "Off with his head" is the royal command for anyone or anything that wastes the public funds. Smoke not only wastes, but also destroys. "Off with its head!"

Our Export Future

From the Export Shipper.

T is not surprising that imports recently and such indeed is the case. Goods are only sparingly bought wh prices are falling, for then there is lit returning confidence and of rising prices commodities and import totals have mate rially enlarged. The cause is obvious, as als is the effect.

More surprising is the fact that expore expansion has followed so rapidly. The answer is, of course, that overseas buy believed that a turn had come and that m. normal conditions were in the making. WALLACE PLANS DAIRY PRODUCTS PROCESSING TAX

Calls Hearing for Oct. 16 to Decide Rate on Milk, Butter, Cheese.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. - Secretary of Agriculture Wallace took formal action yesterday toward evying processing taxes on milk butter, cheese and oleomargarine to finance a production control pro-gram for the dairy industry. He called two hearings for Oct of the tax on milk and its prod-ucts and the second to determine rates of compensatory taxes on competing products, which include oleomargarine and some animal and vegetable fats and oils.

The tax under consideration is one cent a pound on butter fat, which, it is estimated, would yield from $26,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually. This would amount to four cents in the case of 100 pounds of milk with four per cent butter fat content. For a pound of butter, this rate would provide a tax about four-fifths of a cent, as butter is about 80 per cent butter fat.

Processing taxes already are in effect on wheat, cotton, the major tobacco types. Another for hogs and corn is expected to be an-nounced soon. However, the procesing tax on dairy products will afect more farmers than any other.

Buy Milk for Needy. The farm administration has yet determine exactly how proce of the tax will be spent as well as its effective date, expected to be about November 1.

A substantial part of the proceeds will be used to buy surplus 'milk and butter for disposal to the needy through the relief adminisration. Another part may be spent to buy low-producing cows to cut utput. It is planned that the meat lso be distributed to the needy. Under the farm act, the rate of a processing tax is automatically the equal of the difference between current farm prices for the com modities and "parity" prices, based on pre-war average prices, unless it believed that would result in retarding consumption and increasing surplus.

Tax on Competing Products. Wallace said he thought this re-sult would follow the levying of the tax at the full rate. It will be the purpose of farm administrators to determine after the hearing, exactly how high a tax rate can be fixed without reducing consumption and Boston Weel Market.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—(U. S. Department of Agriculture)—All grades of domestic wool had some call during the past week but inquiries were less frequent and the volume of individual sales averaged smaller than in the trading of the previous few weeks. Prices held very firm in spite of the quieter demand. Some lines, especially of medium grade, continued to show a rising price tendency as a result of the limited quantities apparently being offered.

Michigan Life Walks Into Cleveland Tells His Story.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7.-A 48ear-old working man walked into a newspaper office here and told a story of having killed a fellow worker in a Michigan lumber camp and of having escaped 13 years ago from the Marquette prison to which he was sentenced for life for mur-

He said his name was Ralph Thompson but that he had gone under the name of Ralph Thomas since he escaped Aug. 9, 1920. He married, helped to educate his wife's children by a former marriage, but always the fear of being captured and returned to prison

So Thursday night, he told his wife and her children he was a former convict, a killer in the eyes of the law. And yesterday when he told his story to the newspaper (the Cleveland Press), the details of his story were checked with the Michigan Parole Board at Lansing. The stories coincided and Michigan authorities said they would send an officer to Cleveland to take Thompson back to his prison

Thompson said he had been sen tenced for the confessed slaying of Henry Picotte, a lumber camp cook, when they were working together in a camp in Michigan's upper peninsula. Picotte, he said, was insanely jealous of his wife, Elsie, 22. One day they quarreled. Picotte accused Thompson of paying attentions to Elsie. The cook fired and Thompson said he returned the fire with his hunting rifle. Picotte was killed.

SCHULTE HITS HOME RUN WITH TWO ON IN 6TH TO TIE SCORE; OTT'S FOUR-BAGGER ENDS SERIES

By J. Roy Stockton Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 .- The New York Giants added the world's baseball championship to their National League championship this afternoon when Mel Ott hit a home run in the centerfield bleachers in the 10th inning to break a 3-3 tie and give the Giants their fourth victory in five games, 4 to 3 and end the series.

A home run by Fred Schulte, a former Brownie, with two men on bases, had enabled the Washington Senators to tie the score in the sixth inning.

Senators, were knocked out of the box in the sixth inning.

The Giants started as though to make short work of Crowder but the "General" pitched out of trouble in the first inning. Moore hit the first pitch for a single to left and after Critz flied to Goslin, Terry bounced a single past second, sending Moore to third. Ott nar-rowly missed an etra base hit when his drive down the left-field line hit a foot or two from fair territory half-speed ball outside.

A queer quirk of fortune, which changed an intended Kansas Aggies' forward pass into a 58-yard run for a touchdown in the final quarter, last night, turned St. Louis Univer sity's pleasant dream of an allvictory season into a nightmare of 20-14 defeat. THE najor leagues, which watched with interest the various minor league experiments in post-season playoffs, will hardly be interested to advance along similar lines.

Officials of both leagues had said there was a possibility they would give serious consideration to this method of pumping up effective in the lesser leagues.

So far as the returns indicate, the "play-off" plan was a flop technically and even financially. Clubs which won their pennants were beaten in the play-off series by teams which apparently had no right to beat them. Thus, San Antonio, a fourth place outfit, defeated Houston; Buffalo, which finished far down in games be-hind, wno from the league-leading Newarks.

These backfires will not commend the play-off idea to the maend of both big league schedules

At Detroit. whereupon Armato plunged over the line for the touchdown.

Western's defense was powerful throughout the game. On one of the Billiken Juniors' scoring threats Western held them on the 10-yard line for four downs, St. Louis gaining only five yards in the four plays. The second time St. Louis threatened to score Western was not as strong for they permitted Carlin, a Billiken half back, to run IT yards to the 12-yard line. Egan then followed up shortly after with the final touch, plunging over the goal from the five-yard line. Egan also kicked the extra point which spelled victory for St. Louis.

a hearing, set for Tuesday, on the revocation of the license of Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., Chicago. Wallace was asked to hold up the matter long enough to determine whether the new owners of Meadowmoor are complying with the marketing agreement for the Chicago area. Meanwhile, the enforcement officer proceeded against other alleged violators there.

The decision to move toward halting the Meadowmoor hearing came after purchasers of the com-pany came to Washington and agreed to observe the regulations. F. E. O'Hara, former secretary and treasurer of the company, and chief owner of its outstanding stock at the time of the sale, said he had disposed of his interest in the company, and asked for withdrawal of the answer to charges recently filed by Meadowmoor with Wallace.

(Copyright, 1933.) FARLEY, who ran President Roosevelt's campaign and s now Postmaster-General, is not supporting Mr. La Guardia for Mayor of New York. So Mr. La Guardia, throwing secrecy to the winds, tells the country that Mr. Farley is the "great, big, bad wolf" of politics, planning to make himself Go ernor at the next election and President of the United States in 1940. Very much stranger things

Mr. Farley doesn't drink, doesn't smoke, doesn't even talk, except when he must, officially. Such men are scarce and often successful.

New York City last night got an idea of the interesting "next war."
It had been arranged for a squad of army bombing planes, their bomb racks carrying "flares" of 50,000 candle-power to fly over New York, drop the flares, and invite the peo-

Mother and I have tried every-thing we can possibly think of to break him of this habit. We turn on the radio to drown out his noise we give him a dirty look and then make some remark about so much racket. We have even talked to his father and brother, but they say he is nervous and sickly and cannot help that, although he looks healthy and strong, and stays out every night until 11 or 12 o'clock. Could you suggest anything we could do to break him of these STEPCHILD.

If the father and brother of this boy are so mistaken in their indulgence, I hardly see what you can do about it—unless you can get him to fall in love with some girl and have her give him the neces-sary hints. I fail to see how bad manners can help a boy, even if he is nervous and in bad health; and certainly staying out late at night will not strengthen him any. If he really is ill, then he should see a doctor; I would suggest this when these absurd excuses are made for Perhaps little extra kindnesses courtesies extended the boy with the good manners, may make the other think it worth while re forming; I believe this might work better than criticising him.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

AM 19 years old and employed as a stenographer here. I have always loved dancing and would like to study it, giving stenographic work or bookkeeping in exchange. I have always loved danc-ing, but have no money for it, because I have to turn over all my Balary to help support the family DANCING LADY.

There are some clubs which you could join, organized for other purposes, but where you could have dancing for a very small member-ship fee. You might insert a notice in the "Swaps" column in the Post-Dispatch and make an exchange in

Dear Martna:

M Y task of writing is no love affair, but I would like to ask you if you know of any girl about 25 years old, that would like a good girl pal; one who likes to dance, skate and have a lot of enjoyments. I am very lonely at times and would like to find a girl who works to have for a companion, and who likes to go out in a decent way. I think girls can have a good time without always hunting up boys for dates. I think would like to find a good girl pal. SAD AND BLUE.

It is fine to have the right kind of friends, of course—pals, if you like. But I think the right way to go about it is to make yourself so desirable and agreeable to the friends you already have, that they will introduce you to any others they happen to know. Meeting strangers through business channels or agencies or even through column like this is not always satisfactory. No one, especially out knowing your type, can pick out friends for you. Then, too, you know I always advise people to try to make friends through some kind of cultural or social or charity work. You might like to join Girls' Club at the Bishop Tuttle Memorial, 1210 Locust. The fee very small and the interests many. Or you might like the Y. W. C. A. Or, if you want a place to live and are away from your family, the Josephine Club, 28 Benton place, or the Catholic Wom-Club, 4337 Maryland. You ries about clubs.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE DESTROYER OF THE WORLD

The great gun called Jahan Kosha (Destroyer of the World) was built in 1637 during the reign Jehan. It is now embedded in a pepul tree in Tope Kahna (Gun Battery) within the Artillery Park belonging to the Nawab, not far from Katra, Bengal, India. The growing tree seems to have lifted the gun from its carriage, raising it to a height of about 4 feet from the ground, completely swallowing the wheels of the carriage. The iron works and trunnions are still visible. The 17,500pound gun, which was originally given its terrifying name for its monster size, is now an object of religious veneration and attracts a great many native p ilgrims who go there to pay their respects to the old engine of destruction.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL JOCKEY OF THEM ALL

Fred Archer, known as the "Terrible Tinman" is described as the most successful jockey of them all. Out of a total number of about 8000 mounts he ro de 2447 winners, among them five Derbies, four Oaks and six St. Legers. Eight times he rode over 200 winners in a year. Although his weight was against him, it is said that no one ever equaled him in either popularity, and fame or audacity and

THE STRONG BOY OF THE SOUTH

Paul Conrad of Washington, D. C., aged 21 and weighing 154 pounds, carried a 145-pound man up the 898 steps of Washington Monument, without missing a step or making a stop. When he reached the top he had lost four pounds in weight. According to the astonished guards at the Monument at the first time the feat was ever accomplished.

Paul Conrad of Washington, D. C., aged 21 and weighing 154 pounds, carried a 145-pound man powder until it no longer has the semblance of skin. Remember that a mask can never take the place of a face. The face of a clown is grotesque—it is meant to be. If grotesque—it is meant to be. If

By EMILY POST

Our Colorful Appearance

A QUESTION that I have been asked is, "How much make-up may one use and how many colors, and how much jewelry may one wear and still not sacrifice good taste to smartness?" Not long ago I might have answered that the woman who is truly smart is she who has a talent for perceiving the trend of tomorrow and adapting it to the more con-servative taste of when the trend of tomorrow and the barbaric past have become somehow mixed, adjustments are by no means easy to The present

craze of fashion

for stage makeup, stage jewels, and circus colors EMILY POST is causing us to lose our sense of values and proportion. Real jewels shrink to insignificance in comparison with pearl beads of walnut size and glittering chunks of glass. Un-painted lips look pallid in comparison with sharp-edged and opaque vermilion lacquer, and eyes with-out blue shadowed surroundings seem blankly unfinished. Moreover, at the present moment the practice of gluing on inch-long eyelashes, which started in the movies, is threatening to become equally prevalent among the young and smart.

If it should become the fashion to gild our noses and paint green with a amous star—and in her first moons on our cheeks, we would undoubtedly take to gilt and green paint with enthusiasm. In fact, to be quite serious, gilt noses and green moons could not be worse worked hard than the present craze for vividly stenographer." colored finger and toe nails—the latter seen often as not between the straps of stockingless sandals at evening parties, as well as on the beach. Bright pink or coral finger nails do gradually exert a fascination, which colorless ones lack. Gilt ones, and pearly ones are merely gaudy, but the less said the better about the red dipped-inblood finger ends that look as though each nail had been newly torn off.

To the modern generation it must seem fantastic that not so very long ago all makeup was con-sidered wicked. Today the only restraint in the use of every item manufactured is the question of whether or not you are exchanging natural beauty for vulgarizing hardness. For example, don't paint on a clown's red mouth, which is different in shape from your own, don't smudge your eyelids until they look as though they had been blacked in a prize ring. Don't daub on rouge until you look as though you had inflammation of the cheek cosmetics are to add beauty, they must be allies-not enemies-of nature. For those whose eyebrows are too heavy or straggling, a little plucking is to be commended, because neat edges tidy the face just as well as clipped borders tidy garden paths. As to hair dressing. I am enchanted to see that Paris is urging the return to the exaction of classic beauty, which is a head that is small in proportion to height of figure. And fashion is now demanding a return to hairpins, and a beautifully close coiffed head. Hair tumbling loose to the shoulders is all very well on a baby of three, but on a woman of 30 it is as rotesque as though she wore a paby's cap and bib. Moreover, a flowing mane making the head disproportionately huge, while becoming to a lion, is scarcely conducive

And now as to clothes. This hand is useless for slam unless your partner has two high club honors and a fit in diamonds. The slam move is up to him, not up to you. Your bid is four hearts—a sign-off. Only if he overrides it with a constructive bid of four no trumps or five clubs can you accept the idea of a slam with any degree of hopefulness. It is true that the worst form of spade duplication is not likely, since your partner did not give you a one-over-one re-sponse in spades; however, there is you cannot be reassured on this point unless your partner can rebid constructively in a manner showing strength in both minor suits, and that in face of a preliminary sign-off by you. Any covers after Oct. 8 for the "Byrd Antarctic Expedition" should be sent to Washington, D. C., care of the postmaster. Any covers received there prior to Nov. 10 will be forwarded by regular mail steamers to Dunedin, New Zealand, in time to connect with the Byrd ships before sailing for Little America, about Jan. 1, 1934. These covers will be dispatched on the supply ship on the return trip to Dunedin from Little America, and should reach the United States in early summer, 1934. The Byrd stamp will be the sec ond stamp to honor a living American. The first was the Lindbergh 10c airmail stamp.

The Postal Guide lists a town named Kosciusko in Mississippi.

New Issues.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC Three more values of the regular postage series of 1924 have been overprinted for official use. The 5-cent red has been overprinted with the initials "M. A.," the 20cent ultramarine has been overprinted "M. J. I," and the 30-cent claret has been overprinted "M. O. P." All overprints are in black.

BRAZIL-The long-announced Santos Dumont stamp has been is-sued. Collectors will find it rather disappointing, it being only a small horizontal sticker inscribed "BRA-ZIL CORREIO," the design consisting of the head and shoulders of a man with wings growing from each shoulder. Below this is the figure of value on the left "100" and on the right the monetary unit "RS." In between these is a chain f flowers. This stamp was placed on sale Oct. 1 and all mail to be within Brazil will be obligated to use it. The color of the stamp is red-brown. CANADA-The 2-cent red-brown issued in coil form, perforated 81/4 vertically.

CHINA—New air mail stamps are being prepared. The denomi nations are 25 cents, 50 cents and

Two new values in the "Martyrs" series will also be issued in the near future. They are 21/2 cents and 3 cents. The 5-cent green of the Dr. Sun Yat Sen issue, type 2, has been overprinted for use in Yunnan and Szechune. DENMARK-The six denomina tions which have utilized an ancient caravel for its design, have been issued redrawn, line-engraved and with some color changes. The values and colors are as follows: 15ore, red; 20ore, gray; 25ore, light blue, 30ore, orange; 35ore, violet, and 40ore yellow-green.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC—A 50ent gray-green and black has been issued in type A26 of the 1924-27 series, It is unwatermarked, per forated 10. FRANCE-Because of the creation of a large pictorial stamp with the value of 90 cents, it seems likely that the 90-cent carmine red "Peace" type is being replaced. The design of the new stamp pictures a panoramic view of the city of Le Pui, in Central France. The 90-cent value is used on post cards for foreign destinations.

Another low value, 3 cents, vermillion, has been issued in the So lar type. The 1-cent olive-brown and a 2-cent value have just re cently made their appearance in the Solar type. FRENCH COLONIES-Twenty-two colonies representing all of France's stamp-issuing territories with the exception of Oceania and the Ivory Coast had new stamps of the 1fr.25 and 1fr.75 denomina tions on Oct. 2. GERMANY-Two values of the Hindenburg series have appeared in new colors as follows: 4pf is

DECORATIVE TOUCHES for the WINDOWS

AVE you a little stained glass window in your home? Well, cheer up and don't use it just for target practice. Indeed, rejoice in the fact that there is one spot in your home where you may, by using a little ingenuity, make a virtue of a necessity by turning an eyesore into a thing of beauty

There was a time, not so very long ago, when every house had to place and another one half way up resent standards but there is no reason why, simply because we have such a house, that we must accept certain details which are remnants of the Victorian era at its worst. The illustrations which accompany this article show two such windows and suggestions for ways in which they may be attractively camouflaged.

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

CONNIE PAIGE'S prayer for adventure is answered by the discovery of an apartment house thief in her kitchenette. Connie recognizes him as, the man whom STELLA PUTMAM found in her bedroom, but helps him escape the police. She is disturbed to meet him as CLIVE DOUGLAS, a guest at the summer home of GROVER RITCHE, and more disturbed when she realizes that she is falling in love with him. Connie's job at Seahurst is to win NED RITCHIE away from a dancer with whom he is infatuated. Unaware of his father's plot, Ned promptly transfers his ardor to Connie and alarms her by his seriousness. She is relieved when Mr. Ritchie decides that his son is cured of the dancer, and sends Connie back to New York.

But Ned refuses to give her up. When Connie moves into another apartment to avoid him, he lures her onto his yacht by means of a fake telegram from his father. Connie attempts to send a radiogram to her cousin, BETH LEWIS, but learns later that Ned tore it up. At last she consents to marry him, hoping desperately for a miraculous rescue.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY: One stained glass window which is pictured here is placed half way up a stairway on a landing. It was evidently originally placed there to hide the brick wall of the house next door but now the problem is to hide the window. This has been very attractively and interestingly done by the use of a scenic roller shade instead of the more usual plain one. In this instance the shade was bought but anyone might

At the MARKETS

A healthier appetites with cooler weather, the markets are filled to overflowing with everything that is good to eat. As local crops dwindle with the season, produce from the four points of the compass arrives to replenish the markets. What could make one more sure that fall is just around the corner than to see cranberries on the mar-ket? What else could set off a meal like these sparkling red ber-ries from Cape Cod, made into a elly, a salad or an ice?

And, if the cranberries do not onvince you that fall is just about my own - my here, the crabapples will leave o room for doubt. When you notice the price you will want to preserve their beautiful autumn-leaf colorings in at least a few jars of clear crabapple jelly.

While adding to your stock of jellies, don't overlook the quince variety. The supply is plentiful and the price reasonable enough to al-low you to complete your jelly as-

What to have for a salad should be a simple question these days, with water cress and celery cabbage added to tomatoes, green pep-pers and all the rest of the old standbys. Curly, crisp, domestic endive is plentiful. Or, if you wish something different, why not a celery root salad?

Home-grown spinach, mustard greens and kale are on the market but shipped in greens are arriving "Yes," replied Abe. at more reasonable prices from places unaffected by the drouth. Brussels sprouts and broccoli from Colorado and California. The Colorado cauliflower is particularly nice. Artichokes are to be seen in all the markets.

Persian melons are being shipped in from California, large enough to serve a whole family for breakfast -with perhaps some left over for another meal. And, speaking of real comeback as a dramatic actress who gets killed by a ings why not have Canadian bacon in place of the ordinary breakfast bacon, with eggs or waffles? Bock wurst are also here for cold-weath er breakfasts, or any other meal for that matter. New horseradish is particularly tasty with bock

> Cool weather is sending mush rooms into the market, choice products from the mushroom cellars of Missouri and Illinois. A novelty on the market is the Japanese persimmon, which looks nothing like our own persimmor either in size, shape or coloring.

Clean Throughout the Winter If you are making curtains for your home, using the same material all over the house, it is a good idea to make an extra pair at the same time. Then, as necessary, the extra pair may be hung and a soiled pair ideal of a special interest set before them in earliest infancy, so that the need for acquiring a real hobby is firmly ingrained in their minds, taken down and laundered. It would mean very little work and one would always have immaculate curtains. This would be particularly and they have the same ambition to attain it that they have about going to college or learning a trade. Our vocations we must have if we are to keep our bodies alive. As last Sunday was Mr. Hal Ora-hood's thirty-third birthday, his neighbors and relatives took oo. casion to surprise him with a bas-ket dinner. And he had made his brags he never had been surprised, so this was even more fun than usual. At noon a bountiful dinner was spread in the yard, and to look at the food we all decided the depression was over. By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

UST got the Junior Rockefeller's preamble on liquor control.

John says he will soon publish a book on the subject that will be the customer's guide.

He never took a drop but is opposed to the eighteenth rider on the Constitution. John's pop never took a drink either. And that's the real story of why the Baers never met the Rockefellers.

My old man thought local option meant your choice of putting one or two elbows on the bar.

He was one of those lads with will power. He could take it alone or leave it. And come back for it,

The importance of Mr. Rockefeller's report is that he is for law, order and temperance. So are the Baers up to a certain point.
